Monday Noon. The Victim
* Thomas McGrath,

Fearfully Mutilated. Was Caught On Winder.

Monday, about one o'clock, Thomas McGrath, 25 years old met with a most serious and extraordinary accident at the Oxford Paper Mill in Bamford. McGrath, who is stockily built, attracted a revolving window, which is nearly two feet above the floor, while trying to fix some part of the machine. A belt screw that projected about an inch, is said to have caught him, and before the machine could be stopped he was fearfully mangled.

The epididymis and derma were torn from the body, and save for a strip of skin well up on the abdomen, was entirely detached.

Mr. McGrath is a man of wonderful nerve and did not lose consciousness and directed those who came to his aid. He was taken to the home of Mrs. A. Forrest in Riddiollville, where he boards, and physicians attended him.

The detached skin was sewed on, and the exposed glands anchored and although one of the most serious wounds that was ever inflicted upon a man, it is expected that he will recover.

McGrath is a Scotchman and has been in Mexico about a year. He was a helper on a paper machine.

Mr. E. C. Bowler, Editor of the Oxford County Citizen,

Dear Sir:—

Having had my attention called to an article in the "Times" referring to Sunday closing at Bamford, will you please allow me space in the Citizen for a few thoughts on the other side of the question.

The gentleman seems to be quite personal in denouncing so called Sunday violations of the law. Should like to know where he gets his God given and constitutional right to judge any man regarding his question of religion?

OBITUARY.

Adelbert Delano.

The funeral services of Adolbert Delano took place Thursday afternoon at the late residence in Canton Point. A large number of neighbors and friends assembled to do reverence to this worthy man. Mr. Delano was easily the first citizen in his community. His natural gifts coupled with his kindly disposition won him a large circle of friendship and his treatativeness of character and native sagacity prompted him to seek him out for counsel and advice in their own concerns. He once gave more face of his time than Mr. Delano to him serve his women and also that get under the rule of friendship, which extending to the first lady and not only the women but neighborly advice and help of work of a most varied order and rendering the life continually.

As a public officer he has been called upon and faithful to the interests of the county. He committed to office a young man to a value and honor and a public officer of this type is a public benefactor.

Mr. Delano in the private character and also in his domestic relations, can be said to be a man of the highest order. He was square, dependable, open, and his word did not need collateral to make it good. A high vein of humor ran through his nature and his merry heart was ever open. In his family Mr. Delano maintained most happy relations and the greatest joy was found in his place and home at Canton Point. He was a real companion for them all and his large abilities were exercised not alone to provide for their physical comfort but to make in every way a happy home.

No man would be missed from his home as will Mr. Delano, and while he leaves a host of friends regretting his departure and a sorrowing family, he also has bequeathed to that family an honored and respected name, and a life rich in service and devotion, and to the community an example of manly living and integrity.

MEXICO MAN HEARD LIN-COLN'S LAST PUBLIC
SPEECH.

About the time that Lincoln's birthday was being celebrated, several papers published the names of some of the Maine men who had seen Lincoln, at any time, before or while president. Of course it would have been impossible to have made a list without fault, but in failing to get the name of Henry W. Park of Maine they omitted a man who quite likely saw Lincoln oftener than any one now living in Maine.

From July 1861 to July 1862 Mr. Park was stationed on a guard at a little north of Washington on the road to the Soldiers' Home. During the summer, Mr. Lincoln spent "nights" at the home, and for three or four months, Mr. Park saw him once, and generally twice every day. Mr. Lincoln rode bareback and was escorted by a cavalry company on every trip.

The night of March 8, before the suggestion, March 4, 1865, Mr. Park heard Lincoln make a brief address to a party of students from Eastman's Business College and stood close to him while it was delivered.

Following the surrender of Lee, Lincoln was on April 9, Lincoln made a brief address in which he intimated his purpose to outline his policy the following Thursday in a public speech. Mr. Park was then present and again on Thursday, when the speech was delivered from the balcony of the White House. Mr. Park recollects hearing Lincoln ask the band to play Dixie, for Dixie was again a part of the Union.

Friday, the next day, was the fatal day, and the last day of a life that could have done more for the south than any man then living. It thus appears that Mr. Park heard the last three public speeches that Abraham Lincoln ever made. Mr. Park was in the 1st Regiment War Department Rifles.

No man would be injured from his loss as will Mr. Deane, and while he leaves a host of friends regretting his departure and a sorrowing family, he also has bequeathed to that family an honored and respected name, and a life rich in service and devotion, and in the community an example of manly living and integrity.

What would you take?
Suppose you were required to live for a certain length of time on only one article of food. Which would you choose?
There is one food that stands without a rival for such a test. Quaker Oats is that one. It furnishes more strength with least wear and tear on the digestive organs than any other food. You'll feel well and strong at the end of the time.
Try it. Don't stop eating other things, but eat more Quaker Oats and you'll notice the gain in strength.
The regular size package of Quaker Oats sells at 10c, the large family size packages cost 25c, and the family size package containing a piece of beautiful china for the table costs 30c. All grocers sell these.
Eat Quaker Oats daily for breakfast, it strengthens you for the day's work.
No Use For Bills.

GRAFTON.
James Heavard and brother Philip of Grover Hill, Bethel, have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tyler the past week.
A number from this town attended the auction at John Burke's on Friday last.
It is reported that subscriptions enough have been raised to insure the building of the Farmer's Telephone Line from Upton to Newry to connect with the farmers' line at Ralph Kilgore, thus making a complete line from Errol to Bethel. It is hoped to be put in this present season and to come by way of Back St. through Grafton to Newry.
Arthur Parker has been at South
Paris the past few weeks on business.
Mr. Littlefield of Stoneham made his first trip through this vicinity on Friday of last week.
Will Bartlett sheared Gilbert Tyler's sheep one day last week.

NEWRY.
Elmer Bailey called at W. N. Powers' last Sunday.
Mrs. Lucretia Bartlett from Sunday
River, is visiting friends in town.
D. C. Smith has a crew working on the road this week.
There was quite a good congregation at the church last Sunday to listen to Mr. Banghart from Bethel.
Miss Kendall went to Bethel last Friday.

CYNICISMS.
When money talks it is always sure of an audience.
It isn't the knocker who gains admission to our confidence.
Silence isn't always golden. Sometimes it is an admission of guilt.
Tell a married man he doesn't look it and he will be terribly flattered.
About the easiest thing in the world for some people to make is a break.
Even in fishing for husbands it is generally the big ones that get away.
To be considered eccentric, all a woman has to do is to prefer comfort to style.
The clinging nature is often illustrated by the way a man hangs on to his money.
The world gets a lot more pleasure out of calling a bluff than recognizing the real thing.
Most things are governed by the law of supply and demand, but the crop of fools isn't one of them.
There are men who never bow to the inevitable because they don't recognize it when they see it.
Just because fools and children speak the truth is no reason why they should monopolize the conversation.

Women Who Are Envid.
These attractive women who are lovely in the face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like

POISONED HONEY.

Why It Is That the Queen Bees Get
None of It.
"The safeguards provided against the administration of poison to the despotic oriental rulers are rudimentary compared with those which stand between queens of the honeybee and such a risk. Curiously enough, this is a phase of the internal economy of the beehive which appears to have escaped observation.
"In the British Isles," says the Scientific American, "no poisonous honey is collected. If it exists the bees have learned to avoid it. Probably there is none, as the honey from at least one dangerous plant, the deadly nightshade, is harmless. Ivy honey would be the most suspicious of any gathered on a large scale, and it only exerts so far as observation goes, a slightly laxative effect on the digestive organs.
Although in this country no poisonous honey is known, it is met with in other places, notably in Asiatic Turkey.
It was in this region that Xenophon's soldiers were poisoned 2,300 years ago by honey from the Azella pontica, a plant which still flourishes in Armenia. Some centuries later a Roman army suffered similarly, but less severely, there being no deaths.
"The precaution of compelling the bees to eat a portion of every dish, which is the usual safeguard of despotic rulers, or the still more primitive plan of giving the first helping to a little dog, can be eluded by a clever Borgia by having only one-half of a bird or pastry poisoned. In a wasp's nest each forager on returning proceeds directly to the queen and offers refreshment. Consequently the queen is sometimes destroyed by slowly accumulating poison. Further as regards wasps, it is observed that when any larvae not recently fed perceive the queen receiving food they become restless. If nearly grown they wag their heads in a suggestive way, which plainly conveys a demand for a share. Each forager after feeding the queen gives the balance of his load direct to the nurses.
"In the case of the honeybee one possible reason why no virulently poisonous honey reaches the hive may be that the insect foolish enough to collect any would probably die, as the so-called honey-sack is really a stomach in which a preliminary digestive process proceeds. This is proved by the polariscope, which shows that while the nectar of the flowers is pure cane sugar, or levulose, the substance in the hive cells is saccharinically half dextrose and half cane sugar.
Dextrose is invert sugar, a coarse variety of which is the glucose of commerce. Forager bees returning to the beehive place the half digested product known as honey in their storeroom with other honey. This mixing would have the effect of attenuating a poisoned load should such be brought into the hive.
"Foraging bees never feed the queen or young larvae, but they give a mouthful or two to drones in passing.
Just before sealing for the metamorphosis workers and drones are fed with honey mixed with pollen. Not so the young queens who only get a further supply of the redigested milky substance known as chyle, which is the sustenance of all larvae indiscriminately during the first three days of their existence. During the chrysalis stage there is no feeding. It is the business of a gang, distinct for the time being, to cater for the queen and young. They bring the food from the stores and submit it to the digestive process referred to, after which it is regurgitated to supply the needs of the queen and young larvae. The attendants are numerous, and each supplies only a minute quantity. The queen bee is so constituted that her digestive system is capable of assimilating only the prepared food of chyle.
She will die in a few hours on a comb containing honey, although kept at the temperature of the hive.
"Thus it would appear that the safeguards are: First, a bee collecting poisonous honey would probably die before reaching the hive; second, that if one succeeded in depositing poisoned honey, the circumstance that it did so would prove the poison to be not virulent, and its mixture with other honey in the storeroom would still further attenuate the poison and render it harmless. This is the stage at which the product becomes human food. It has, as stated above, occurred that poisoned honey has passed both these lines of defense; third, that should the honey be still deleterious the alimentary attendants of the queen would first suffer, and only those bringing wholesome food would reach her, as a struggle for the privilege of feeding her majesty is continually in progress; fourth, that should the stores pass the three safeguards before mentioned there is still another, viz., that each one of the queen's attendants feeds her only for a second at a time, and thus she would never get a sufficient quantity to affect her seriously. It is apparent, therefore, that the queen is abundantly protected from being fed with poisonous honey.

an end piece six inches long and six inches deep.
This stick is cut out of either an inch

Mrs. W. S. Chandler and daughter Dorothy were in Freeport over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Emerson returned from Rangely last Friday, after enjoying the fishing for several days. They will go back to the lake at once, having secured employment at the Mingo Spring House and camps for the summer season.

Morace Cole is off duty from the electric cars because of an injury to his foot while handling cream cans.

Norway High defeated South Paris High 5 to 1 on the Fair Grounds, Saturday afternoon. The Norway boys secured the five runs in their fourth inning with two outs, but Paris couldn't get anything except goose eggs until the eighth, when one lone score was recorded. The game was clean and fast on both sides.

Perry Noyers opened his pleasant home to a party of friends last Thursday evening, and Frank Lannen, the new Radcliffe catcher was introduced as guest of honor. The evening was spent in vocal and instrumental music, general sociability and base ball talk.

Manager Leith presided at the piano during the evening, rendering selections from rag time to opera, showing true musical ability. He gave one of his own compositions, "Old Glory March," dedicated to the G. A. R. Post to which his father belonged. Perry Noyers and Frank Lannen were down for a vocal selection but Perry's throat gave out and Frank thoughtlessly left his music roll at the hotel, so Cleve Goodwin, Will Smith and Chandler endeavored to fill the vacancy. After cigars were lighted the conversation drifted to the National game and many interesting experiences were given by Perry Noyers, Win. Leith and Frank Lannen, who can speak from personal observation.

Mr. Wm. Beckford was introduced as reader and impersonator but begged to be excused on account of the dense atmosphere in the room. The game continued until several innings had been played, then the umpire called it off because of the late hour.

Geo. Merrill, son of Bradford N. Merrill, is working in the Norway bakery, learning the business.

Yeaton and Adams are giving successful entertainments at Central Park. They offer moving pictures, vaudeville songs, and Saturday evening dancing was added to the list. Patronage is reported good.

The flow of travel up the lake is steadily increasing. Many cottages are opened for the summer and the boats are beginning to do considerable business.

A field day for the scholars of the several Protestant Sabbath schools in Norway and Paris is an assured fact. The plans are for this event to take place on the county fair grounds about the middle of July. Of course there will be a picnic dinner, athletic contests and ball games, possibly a band of music may be on hand. The committee, composed of the superintendents of each school, are busy perfecting satisfactory arrangements for the coming good time.

SPECIAL TRAIN PARTY

For the Pacific Coast, July 15.

A special train party from the New England States is being organized by Mr. E. C. Bowler of Bethel to make a thirty day tour to the Pacific Coast. The Maine division will leave Portland via the Maine Division of the Maine Central on Wednesday, July 15, joining the Massachusetts division at Montreal. The route will be via Chicago, Denver, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland and back to Portland. The tour will include the Canadian Rockies, Winnipeg, St. Paul and Niagara Falls.

The tour is well planned and every possible effort will be made to make it one of the most ideal tours ever taken by New Englanders between ocean and ocean. The tour will be personally conducted by Mr. Bowler who has a reputation of giving the people who travel with him a good time, and many are looking forward to this tour with much pleasure. Full information may be had by addressing Mr. Bowler.

SOUTH PARIS.

The baccalaureate sermon before the class of 1909 Paris High School will be delivered by Rev. J. H. Little, former pastor of the Universalist church, at the Congregationalist church next Sunday evening.

Lieutenants L. H. Dougherty and C. A. Marston were in Waterville Friday of last week to be present at the election of staff officers of the second Maine regiment.

Mt. Pleasant Rebekah Lodge have invited Harrison Lodge and Onward Rebekah Lodge of West Paris, to meet with them Friday evening. The work will be done by the home lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gray are to observe the tenth anniversary of their marriage on Monday, June 14th at their cottage, Gray's Birch, at Norway lake. The invited guests include the members of the Seneca, Enterpeur and Ladies' Whist Clubs, and their gentlemen for a part of the day.

Irving Andrews and crew are at work painting the residence of Dr. J. G. Littlefield.

Wirt Stanley has purchased of Mrs. L. S. Briggs the corner house lot on Pine street, just north of the road which will some day come through from Pleasant street by the creamery. He will clear the lot this season and get ready to build next season.

The lecture at the Baptist church Tuesday evening of last week was largely attended and Rev. H. S. Pinkham proved an interesting and eloquent speaker as was expected. His many friends were pleased to learn of the excellent offer he has received to become pastor of a church in Missouri.

More building operations started. George W. Haskell is getting his lot on Wheeler street into condition to build on and Dr. D. M. Stewart has the foundation in and the walls up for a stable in the rear of his home on Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morse of Minneapolis, Minn., are visiting their brother, A. E. Morse.

Mrs. Albert D. Park spent a few days at her cottage at Old Orchard last week.

George A. Wilson, Jr., and his bride are spending the week at his brother's cottage, Gray Birch, at Norway Lake, arriving here on their wedding trip last Friday. The wedding took place in Houlton, Thursday, the bride being Miss Anna E. Palmer of that city, and one of its most popular young ladies. Mr. Wilson is at the present time in charge of the telephone exchange at Houlton and Monticello, and they will make their home at Blaine. Mr. Wilson was very thoughtful and sent a check in have cigars and soda set up for his friends before he arrived here, his former home.

Harold T. Briggs and wife and daughter, Marion, spent Sunday with Mrs. Briggs' mother in Lewiston.

A pretty home wedding took place in Norway Saturday, when Carl Howard Robinson of this village and Miss Margarette Geneva Snow of Norway, were married at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Whitmore of the Baptist church and they immediately started on their wedding trip in L. S. Sealover's auto. Mr. Robinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson and they will reside with his parents for the present.

L. L. Mason of the Mason Manufacturing Company, and wife of Portland, are spending the week in this village, John Scott being away on business.

Mrs. Lila Woodbury is visiting relatives in Portland.

A new cement walk improves the residence of J. J. Emley on Pleasant street.

Next Sunday will be observed as Memorial Sunday by Mt. Pleasant Lodge. The graves of the deceased brothers in Pine Grove cemetery will be decorated in the forenoon. In the afternoon the different branches of the order will assemble in their hall at two o'clock and the exercises at Riverside cemetery will occur at 2:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben S. Kilborn of Bethel, spent Sunday with Mrs. Kilborn's parents, S. T. Stearns and wife, and will remain here this week while Mr. and Mrs. Stearns are attending the Universalist State Convention at Gardiner.

Misfortune never comes single; the Young Brothers lost another work horse last week, it being the third one they have lost within a year. Let us hope that their hard luck will end with the third one.

Harry M. Wheeler of this place has received the appointment of clerk to the State Superintendent of Schools. The position is a very desirable one and it is gratifying to see our young men placed in responsible positions in the early part of their manhood.

little to choose in the work of the two teams, but in the third inning Paris was way up in the air, allowing Norway to score all five of her runs on five errors and one hit, all the runs coming in after Paris had an easy chance to retire the side. There seems to be no excuse for such playing but where is the team that does not go into the air at times, not among high school teams at least. The final score was 2 to 1, Norway on the big end.

The grammar school was much more successful at Mechanic Falls winning their game easily by a score of 19 to 2.

Franklin Porter, an aged and highly respected citizen of our village, died at his home on Myrtle street Friday morning at the age of 79 years, after a long illness in which the result has never been in doubt. He is survived by a wife, who is also in feeble health, and four sons. He was for a number of years on the board of selectmen and has always enjoyed the confidence of a large circle of friends. He was a member of West Paris Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the oldest member of Paris Lodge of Masons in number of years in which he has belonged to the order. The funeral was held at the Baptist church, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, attended by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Chesbro, and was in charge of Paris Lodge of Masons. Burial was in the family lot in the Porter district cemetery.

THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1909.

The Citizen has received from Chicago, clippings from "Peoples' Press" commencing the editorial in the Citizen of some weeks back, in which an appeal was made to the young fellow to let the "house" alone. It is a long reach, but we appreciate the favor just the same.

Our Dumb Animals, the paper
so long edited by the late Geo.
T. Angell, has started a movement that it calls "Animal Sunday."
The idea is to have a Sunday in the year devoted by ministers to preaching against cruelty to dumb creatures. There is need of such preaching or some influence against the misuse of animals in Oxford County.

In the recent disclosure of frauds against the people by the sugar refiners, assisted by faithless officials of the people, we get a glimpse of the truth of the saying, that one needs to hire one man to do the work, another to watch him and a third to watch the second. We wonder whether official corruption is worse than in times past and if it is as bad as in the monarchical governments? In these dishonest transactions, perpetrated by men of wealth and great business interests, aided by petty officials, the faith of the people in the rectitude of business men, and the honor of their servants gets a set back. Our ethical and governmental systems get hard hit, and unless the people do some watching out the hurt will be an incurable state. Fabrics altogether different methods are used, and different classes of people come in than have attended Rhode Island a demonstration in the average of intelligence and moral ideas, will eventually occur. But Maine is better adapted to industrial than agricultural development, and in a world where money and material prosperity to the goal there is no question about the advisability of pushing along the movement towards the abolition of the sugar trust. The sugar power of the State having the example of other states, we may be able to learn the dangerous features of the change from an agricultural to an industrial population.

PROTESTANT CHURCH PRO- SPECT IN NEW YORK.

Mr. Standard Baker has spent much time in New York city in studying the religious situation of the people, and the condition of the various churches. He makes a lengthy report in the American register, and finds that very few good people go to church, and that churches are constantly coming from the heart of the city. But that the population there is constantly increasing.
The churches are coming from the people especially. He speaks of the masses and religious churches that are scarcely maintained for poor people and says the poor people are prone to reject the discipline conveyed in the service of the sacrament. They are not able to own churches of their own. However, he believes many interesting conditions, but what he says about certain situations that he thinks work hard to the churches leaves one of the line before the eyes of the people of several towns in Maine, and may be worth the consideration of church members.

He says, "Thus we find the needed clergy of various cities maintaining with enthusiasm against Sunday laws, but these laws are not to be and many poor people are suffering from the lack of the poor." After discussing the Sunday law, and nothing, again, and of
of such, he concludes that "About the only time the working men have the churches is when it tries to take away some of his possessions."

He points out that the Protestant church is not a poor man's institution, and that in New York city there is more than one million of non-Catholic and non-Jewish people who do not belong or go to any Protestant church. He quotes the views of many ministers and church workers as to the cause and remedy, but no two have the same idea, and propose no adequate remedy. Mr. Baker also notes a falling away in Catholic church membership but not in any like proportion to that noted in the Protestant churches. This is a problem that confronts other places than New York city.

OXFORD COUNTY CONGO, CONFERENCE.

between two church societies, conducted on the spirit of love and fellowship and honesty and fair play.

The game of itself was an excellent one. Two teams could hardly be more evenly matched than were these, and it was a surprise to the friends of each, and we were all friends of each, to realize what ball players our boys are.
The Mexico boys took the Bethel boys a hit by surprise in the first inning and succeeded in getting three scores.
In the second inning the Bethel boys gained two, in the third, each one, and in the fourth, the Bethel's another.
The game then revealed a tie during the next six innings, not a score being made by either team. In the eleventh inning the Bethel team brought in two runs and ended the game with a score of 6 to 4 in their favor. It was presided over by all present one of the cleverest games of base ball that they had ever seen, and one of the best and sharpest contested of any that they had seen for a long time, even by older and more experienced players.

It certainly was a happy thought on the part of Rev. J. O. Fisher, of Mexico, in arranging for this game, bringing the boys together in friendly competition to participate in a sport that all enjoy, and retaining them for the evening's program, which was arranged especially for the boys. After supper the Mexico club, under the leadership of Mr. Williams and Mr. Fisher, gave a very excellent drill on the lawn, in which all were much interested and with all enjoyed.

The evening was opened by a song service led by Rev. H. L.
Farkland of Andover. This was followed by a very stirring and side address by Rev. H. L. Fisher, of Norway, to the boys. This was followed by another address concerning the work of the Negroes of New England by Rev.
J. O. Fisher of Mexico. It was a most beautiful service. The theme of the night, consisting of about twenty to thirty, and the fifth of that of some as many more, responding the first verse of a sacred chorus and listening intently to those who sang and during the time they were singing and to hold for their entire service and go forth into the world ready men. And it was interesting too to observe that the members of the speakers found response in the hearts of the boys, who clapped to the words and in singing words of the speakers. It was indeed a noble service and one who may have had any reservations surrounding the boys taking a half day's vacation to come to participate in this service should think twice before they allow such struggles to trouble them in the future. The day will work a measure in the lives of the boys and thanks are due to those who made it possible.

RICHARDS AND LECOURN DISCHARGED.

Twenty morning Harry Richards and Joseph Lecourn were before Resident Justice on search and seizure warrant. Matthew McCarthy appeared for them both. There was taken from the Richards house, 411 Wadsworth street, a bottle of gin and four bottles of whiskey. From Lecourn's house a can containing two gallons of whiskey in a jug, two quarts of whiskey in a jug, and a bottle of whiskey. The defense was that they had the stuff for their own use. There was no previous record against either man and they both went free. The Resident discharged them. Deputy Small and Police Officer Violette were complacently in the former and Small and Violette in the latter case.

AT THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH RUMFORD.

There was a large congregation present to hear Rev. Eliot H. Butler of Massachusetts, at the Rumford Universalist church last Sunday. He preached on the general subject of discipleship.
His point of view was very clearly outlined, and was that it did not result in blindly following a leader, but in trying to comprehend the highest ideal and best thought of the leader and in having true opinions. True or right opinions being those that are real. The thought that is original, and thoroughly believed in is a real opinion and constitutes one disciple of truth whether or not the opinion is strictly correct or not. The fact of, and accuracy of diversity of opinions were features that were spoken of at some length. The circumstance that Jesus did not demand any thing like implicit belief was brought out in the story of Thomas, who was somewhat of a skeptic, and demanded proof, and was always of an investigating mind, and yet nothing appears in that that Jesus was disturbed or thought of disturbing him from discipleship. This age as well as that, needs real thought, original ideas.

CANTON.

Wm. C. Bartlett of Cantonville passed away Monday night at 5:30 o'clock after a short illness of pneumonia, at the age of 66 years. Mr. Bartlett was thought to be improving, when he took cold and grew rapidly worse. He was a native of Hartford, and moved from Canton to Cantonville a few years ago, where he has had charge of the toll bridge. He leaves a wife and three children.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C.—Nothing so well illustrates the esteem in which President Taft is held by the whole country, regardless of section and of party as the sentiments expressed by Mr.
Henry Watterston in his Memorial day address. Mr. Watterston said:

"Today it is Lincoln's example which moves a calm, enlightened and patriotic occupant of the Presidential office—like himself a life-long Republican and a Republican partisan—to reach forth his arms as if to clasp in their embrace the whole people, seeking to win the good opinion, yearning for the approval, of each and every one of them."

"Whether they give it in detail, or divide upon the incidental issues of the time, they will not withhold it in the aggregate and, since a vigorous opposition is indispensable to good government, his wise moderation and transparent integrity give us the promise of an opposition based upon principle rather than faction, self-respectful and respectful, upright, clean and kind."

"From such partisans nothing is to be feared, because it leaves us free when danger comes, to forget that we are Republicans, to forget that we are Democrats, remembering only that we are Americans."

Without any desire to unduly emphasize the good judgment displayed by Mr. Taft thus far during his administration, it can be said that his judicious temperament and deliberate action will undoubtedly result in fewer mistakes than has been the lot of any President since Lincoln.

Not only is the President endearing himself to all the people, but Vice-President Sherman, as well, seems to be growing more popular every day. There are various little acts which appeal to the sentiment of the people—unassuming and unostentatious in themselves, but which reach the people through the newspapers.
On Sunday, May 30th, Decoration Day, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman first went to worship at Christ Church, in Alexandria, known as Washington's church, and after the service proceeded on to Mount Vernon, where they placed wreaths on the graves of George and Martha Washington. This is the first time in our history that a President or Vice-President of the United States has done such an act, and while it was performed without any ceremony whatever and was a simple tribute, yet it became known to the Washington papers and hence to the papers of the country.

It begins to look as if Mr. Taft is not going to be able to leave the White House for his summer vacation as early as he had wished. The tariff debate goes on seemingly without end and very slow progress is being made.
It does not seem possible now that the bill can be put out of the Senate before July 1st, and it is not known how many weeks will be spent in Conference. Although the country is becoming impatient at the delay, and it is estimated that millions daily are being lost to the business interests of the country, yet it is only fair to state that the progress of the bill is quite as rapid as has been the case in previous tariff making. To be sure, it is recognized that the bill as reported to the Senate will be passed substantially as reported by a majority of from ten to twenty, no matter how long the debate or how earnest may be the so-called progressives or insurgents, and yet after all it seems better that there should be a full discussion upon every item, so that there can be no claim made after the bill is passed that it was rushed through without proper consideration. It is hoped that the bill that will be passed this summer will not have to be changed again for at least a decade, and for that reason it seems best that it should have the most careful consideration and be finally accepted by the people as the wisdom of the majority in both Houses of Congress as well as the President.

It is not believed that any important industries of the country will be adversely affected and there is every sign that an unusual degree of prosperity will follow the enactment of the law. Already without waiting for the final passage of the bill many mills which have been idle are being started up all over the country, and with the good crops which are expected there will be an unprecedented fall business, which will result in the employment of the many men now idle, with wages at the highest point we have ever known. This will mean new business next year and with the expected prosperity should come more confidence in the wisdom and legislation of the Republican party as well as the confidence required in the President, which should result in an increased house to be elected in the fall of 1910, all Democratic predictions to the contrary notwithstanding.

President Taft's recent appointments in the Consular Service indicate that hereafter these offices will ter was also received from Hon. A. S.

Kimball stating that sickness in his family prevented him from being present. Two solos by L. S. Sessions were interspersed with the speaking.

A. D. Park then gave a short history of the work that had been done during Mr. Little's pastorate and closed his remarks by presenting Mr. Little, Mrs.
Little and Mrs. J. S. Burbank each with a twenty dollar gold piece. Mr.
Little also receiving an amount of silver as a slight token of the appreciation felt for the work they have done here and the general sorrow caused by their departure to other fields of labor. Mr. Little responded in a feeling manner, saying among other things, that his work here had been very pleasant and that his new pastorate was not so far distant but what he hoped and expected to see his friends here often, also that his latch string would always be out at his new home in Bethel and friends would receive a cordial welcome.

One of the most touching affairs of the evening came when Mrs. J. S. Burbank arose to express her thanks, and showed plainly in what love and high esteem she held by all who have been privileged to make her acquaintance. Her work and that of Mrs.
Little, especially among the children has been such that it will never be forgotten.

This part of the exercises was closed by singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." After which, refreshments of ice cream, sherbet, all kinds of cake and fancy crackers were served and a social time enjoyed until a late hour

CIVIL WAR SOLDIERS GIVEN DUE HONORS

In First Memorial Services
At Rumford Falls.

Long Line. Flower Service.
Music. Speeches.

Note—The following report may seem a bit late. In fact it is late and Uncle Sam is to blame for it and we will charge the lateness to his mail department. As things are better late than never we will use it this week.

Monday, May 31st, witnessed at Rumford Falls an observance of Memorial day that was worthy of the occasion and a credit to all those who participated in the preliminary work and the exercises.

At 8 p. m. the parade started in the order given last week. Fred O. Bates, as marshal, leading and Chief of Police, blue uniforms had been laid away, he, O'Patrick and Officers Brooks, Rouch came as one was left to wear them, and Violet following at the head of there would be the same effort as the band. One of the fine features of the procession was the school children, back to some soldier of the Civil war. Boys and girls marched in couples and there were nearly 300 in line. When the bridge was reached there was a halt, and the regular flower had an effect but for the good and service was performed. Mrs. W. W. have men to execute them, and his O'Patrick reading, assisted by other of the Relief Corps. The little girls each carried a bouquet or wreath of flowers and as they passed along threw them on the water, and they were borne down the stream, the imagination carrying them on and on to the ocean where they find the graves of the dead sailors.

After the return of the procession and the military drill by Company M, the orders all marched to the opera house, and a very interesting program was carried out.

The band played an appropriate selection, and then the Clarion male quartet, composed of H. W. Hanlett, E. R. Bowers, H. Tozier and W. W. Gilchrist sang in due voice, and affectingly "I Cannot Always Trace the Way."

Judge A. E. Stearns in behalf of the Sons of Veterans presided and called upon Col. Geo. D. Hibbs to say a few words of welcome.

Col. Geo. D. Hibbs.

After greeting the various orders and making a few complimentary remarks to the Veterans and Relief Corps, he cited the fact that even with only a little over a hundred years having passed, and since the Revolution, it was estimated an honor to be able to trace one's ancestry to a Revolutionary soldier and the inference drawn was that in the order given last week, when the last of the as marshal, leading and Chief of Police, blue uniforms had been laid away, he, O'Patrick and Officers Brooks, Rouch came as one was left to wear them, and Violet following at the head of there would be the same effort as the band. H. S. Ryder.

Miss Cora Belle Howe.

Miss Cora Belle Howe recited "Old Man and Jim," a poem of the war, pathetic and eloquent. The story was told in the Yankee dialect, and was splendidly rendered.

Hollis C. Danton.

Mr. Hollis C. Danton then spoke of the Republic that was born one hundred and thirty three years ago—born amidst grief and carnage and unbelieved by other nations. In a well rounded period he described that feeble government as now the greatest and strongest on earth. That government is gone and mine—the United States of America. The Civil war finally made facts of the theory set forth in the declaration that all men possessed the unalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. This is a land where no man is born noble, but all have a chance to become so. We have a government under which every man can worship God as he likes. He closed with a tribute to the Veterans and the Women's Relief Corps, and a compliment to the flower service.

Maria and Lucile Bartlett.

Miss Maria Bartlett, accompanied by her eleven year old sister, Lucile, gave a violin solo that held the audience in closest attention, and caused a burst of applause.

Miss Mildred Adelle Smith.

Miss Mildred Adelle Smith recited a poem entitled "What is Our Flag?" The poem had verses to be sung, and it was very effectively rendered. Miss Smith waved an American flag to the rhythm of the music, and pleased the audience very much.

Miss Frances Wheat was on the program for a reading but was ill and unable to be present.

Gaylord W. Douglass.

Gaylord W. Douglass spoke more directly of the Spanish war, brought out the intimate connection between that and the Civil war in the fact cited that Civil war veterans took part, and also those who fought against the union—like Gen. Joe Wheeler. He reviewed the history of Spanish misrule in Cuba, and the long series of events that finally led up to the United States saying to Spain that the cruelties in Cuba must cease. He referred to the important part the 10th of April had played in the history of the country, and spoke of that as being the date on which Congress declared the independence of Cuba. He referred to the lack of preparedness for war, and the incompleteness that sent soldiers to Cuba in the hottest of weather with winter clothing, and the slowness that was shown in the fact that summer uniforms were gotten to them about the time they got back to the North in winter. Spoke of the saying that "truth was always on the scaffold, and wrong always on the throne," but thought truth prevailed in the end and the same. He closed by paying a splendid tribute to the late Gen. Joe Wheeler. The Clarion quartet sang "The Vacant Chair," following which Mrs. Sarah E. Tatum, National Instructor of the Women's Relief Corps made a brief, but well spoken address.

She said that the Corps was an auxiliary to the Grand Army and would keep alive the memory of the deeds of the "boys in blue" in the years to come when they had all gone. She said that the first Corps was formed in Portland, and from that had grown to the present powerful National body. Oxford County has the honor of being the home of one of the prime movers in the organization. She spoke very feelingly of Mrs. Sarah Fuller of Canton, as the Oxford representative in the first organization. She explained that the relief was of a practical nature, and referred to the large sums disbursed by the Corps.

She made some very timely remarks concerning our duty to the many foreigners among us. She related an incident where a Corps woman went to a school of foreign children and the best explanation any one could give of the stars and stripes, was that it was "Pat Skaghnecsey's drum shop sign."

Rev. H. L. Hanson.

Rev. H. L. Hanson began his address by speaking of the significance, and peculiar sacredness of the day, and that it had maintained its character where other holidays had changed. Speaking of Thanksgiving day it brought to view the fact that it had become a National holiday, instead of a holy day, and of fast that it had become a farce day and in speaking of Independence day he characterized the modern methods of observing it as senseless. He then spoke of the new patriotism. He said it was but the old patriotism adapted to modern life. Lincoln's definition was "seeing one's duty and then doing it." The speaker praised the Hebrews of old, and thought their sense of patriotism and belief in their God preserved the nation from slavery.

In speaking of the early agitation of slavery in America he described the unpopularity of the movement and told how the Christian church was used to uphold it, and the Scriptures invoked to prove it to be a divine institution. The speaker thought amidst the more confusion of 1861 it was greatly to the credit of people that they saw the right and did it. The speaker listed some of the statesmen, politicians, judges, and educators, that have taken parts in the purification of the public service as among the exponents of the new patriotism. In closing he said: "The American people are just as patriotic as ever—there would be 10,000 defenders arise where there were 1,000 in '61." Turning to the Veterans on the stage he said: "The Veterans of the Civil war may rest in the confidence of the country they saved will be safe in the future—the new patriotism is but the old adapted to modern life."

Rev. Geo. B. Hannaford pronounced the benediction, and the audience passed out while the band played inspiring music.

This observance is the first of its kind that has ever occurred at the Falls village, and it may be pronounced a very gratifying experience, and beneficial. Those who had the matter in charge are entitled to great credit.

The committee of arrangements was composed of the following: Mrs. L. A. Dewar, chairman, Mrs. Anna C. Gilchrist, Mrs. Annie E. Britton, Miss Jennie Denning, H. J. Chase, A. E. Stearns, H. L. Elliott.

The Oxford Bates, No. 24, W. R. C. Mrs. Rebecca Jonathan, President; Geo. D. Hibbs Camp, No. 62; E. of V. Mr. D. J. McCoy commander, were the organizations that backed the movement. Mrs. Laura A. White and H. J. Chase, were the patriotic instructors.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

He held through merit and promotion based on experience and fitness.

Some Senator said something here a few moments ago about divisions in the Republican party. I think it was my friend from Michigan who said that. I do not know that I can better close than by saying that nobody with in our party can have, and nobody without our party need have, any alarm for our party future; because when all is done it will be found that exchequer have been reduced and justice established, all by one broad, general principle, and an equal desire among us to do exactly what is right from our different points of view. And, so when the day of battle comes, the Republican party will be found disciplined, compact, aggressive, marching forward in the future as it has in the past, to victory for itself and to blessings for the Nation.—Senator Beveridge.

It is hoped and expected that the new tariff will be so satisfactory and effective that tariff revision will not be thought of again for at least ten years.

The new tariff will be called the Aldrich tariff, or by some the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

Free Trade is dead. And there is not one to mourn its departure.

Vice-President Sherman is still "Sunny Jim," whether presiding over the Senate, at a ball game, or delivering a commencement address.

The next or regular session of the Old Congress will be a most interesting one, for then we shall see what the "Taft policies" are.

The "Progressives" in the Senate do not make much progress.

Of course, Mr. President, our fate as a party is bewailed by others. That is an old story. The Democratic party always bewails our fate before elections and then always bewails its own fate after elections. I have heard in the ten years that I have been here every single session, a prophecy, lurid in its vividness, that we are going to meet disaster, that the seeds of disintegration were planted in our bosoms, and that our party death was near, but I never found it to come true. After each prophecy, increasing in violence as they have been, I have always found our victory increasingly pronounced.—Senator Beveridge.

When Henry Watterson can give a pointed rebuke to a Republican President as to his President Taft on Memorial Day, on one of general good feeling is certainly at hand.

DEPENDS UPON ALDRICH.

Taft Realizes That "Organization" Dominates Tariff Work of Senate.

Washington Dispatch to New York Tribune

The tariff debate has now made without progress to demonstrate the complete chaos which would have resulted to the Senate had the Republican organization, headed by Senator Aldrich been overthrown, and events have answered the oft-repeated question, "Why does not President Taft exert his powerful influence to disrupt the Republican organization and destroy the power of the 'Aldrich clique'?" President Taft is a firm advocate of revision of the tariff downward, but he realizes the necessity of dealing with this great question through the organization, and he has all along appreciated the measure, not only to the tariff but and to the party, but to the business interests of the country, which the overthrow of the organization in the Senate would constitute.

The inconsistency of a majority composed of the progressive Republicans and the Democrats has been manifested in numerous instances, but in none more so than in the case of free trade. Years ago there was a strong demand for revision of the tariff schedule, so strong that in 1892 the late representative Hallock of Wisconsin introduced a bill in the House calling for the free list and greatly reducing the tariff on steel and manufacturers thereof. The President has all along advocated free trade, and the House bill makes it free. The Senate committee made the duty 25 cents a ton. It was supposed that, of course, the Democrats would join with the progressive Republicans to defeat the committee's amendment, but, on the contrary, a majority of the minority voted for the duty of 25 cents, and, judging by their expressions, would have imposed an even higher duty had they been in control of the situation.

In a word, it has become obvious that were the organization in the Senate overthrown the majority, composed of Democrats for the most part, with a few progressive Republicans, would play ducks and drakes with the tariff bill, that they would scalp tain or even increase the duties on these products in which they are interested, while they mercilessly cut the tariff on the products of certain Eastern States. In the estimation of the President they would make a thoroughly inconsistent tariff bill, which the House would refuse absolutely to accept, and the result would be a session prolonged throughout the summer, an ultimate result which would satisfy no one.

THE REAL AMERICAN HEIRESS.

A Worth Standard of Conduct the Only Imperishable Heritage.

To know that one's forebears were people of refinement, of culture, of gentle breeding, instead of inspiring arrogance should challenge the best that is in one, lest he fall short as a representative of those in honored, whose graces once flowered, writes Ruth McCreary Stuart in Harper's Bazar.

An inherited standard of life—let us put that down in our list of blessings. And for all inherent good which has come down to us as a benediction, without the asking, and which may be held only in trust as a sacred responsibility, let us delight to give thanks.

We American women, then, will tell to our children any true story of prowess, of chivalry, of long patience and reverent waiting, of any great quality which has found expression in lives of any of their ancestors—no that they may know themselves thus endowed with the only imperishable heritage. The daughter, the granddaughter, who comes by direct line into such an inheritance is the real American heiress.

She may not have a dinner gown to her name, or be "up in the etiquette of fashionable life. Perhaps she is not even a person of leisure, much less a member of the "leisure class." If so, so much the better. So much more hopefully has she her life in her own hands.

PAIN MADE A DEFINITE POINT.

No Manner of Doubt as to Location of Trouble.

Angelina Spring, in spite of the hostile sound of her name, had a bad temper. One day she insisted on crying, and protested when the question was put often enough to elicit an answer, that she had a "pain." Exactly where, she would not or could not describe. Her persistent fretting finally won for her a vigorous spanking.

After the punishment there was quiet. A caller came, and heard the tale. "You see," said Mrs. Spring, "the best saying that I have heard is, 'but she wouldn't say where the pain was, so she had to stop her bawling then to speak her'."

"Fixed of localizing the pain?" suggested the visitor.

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Spring, heartily. "That is it precisely."—Youth's Companion.

MEXICO, AND RIDLONVILLE.

The Week's News as Gathered by our Special Correspondent

Graduating Exercises of Mexico High School.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1909 of the Mexico High School, took place at the High School building on Tuesday afternoon, June 8th. Rev. Harold Hanson of Rumford delivered an excellent address and the music by the teachers and the school was greatly appreciated. The class was a very small one, many of the members having moved away or left town to enter other schools, leaving only one graduate, Herbert M. Howes, the son of Rev. M. S. Howes, who has attained high rank in all branches of his four years high school course, and expects to enter the University of Maine in the fall.

F. J. Grant and wife went last Wednesday to Rumford Junction, where they will spend a month in their car, while Mr. Grant is engaged there with railroad work.

Frank Bennett spent Saturday in Chisholm, on business.

W. P. Gammon and wife went to Farmington Sunday, in their auto.

Mrs. Carl Jordan, who has been very ill, is somewhat better.

Mrs. Chas. Ripley and daughter, Doris, are spending a few weeks at her home in Andover.

Mrs. Henry Holt is confined to her home with a serious illness.

Al. Martin returned last week from a week's vacation in Hebron.

Garfield Redmond spent the week's end with friends at North Jay.

Guy Caldwell and daughter, Violet, went to Lewiston, Saturday, to bring home Mrs. Caldwell, who has been at the Sister's Hospital for several weeks.

Mrs. Caldwell is getting along nicely.

The Road Commissioners have been laying out Glenison St., a much needed street, making a connection between the Harlow Hill Road and Osgood Ave., possible without traveling a long distance to get there. The street is made wide and makes a good road.

Herbert Ames has moved his livery stable into the building with the blacksmith shop on Main street.

Miss Mabel Foye commenced work Monday morning in the postal department of the Oxford Mill.

The friends of Mr. William Vandenberg who is in East Angora, P. Q., will be very sorry to learn that he has been quite ill of the mumps, which is not very pleasant in a strange place so far away from home.

Mrs. Burton Goodwin and little daughter, went Saturday to her home in Kennebunk for a visit.

The readers of the Citizen this week will notice that Mexico and Ridlonville are well represented in the advertising section, most of our merchants being represented. Advertising in a good paper always pays.

Miss Mervie Frye and Miss Ethel Reynolds were guests, at tea, of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Dorr on Friday.

Miss Edith Fish, who is studying for a nurse in Portland, came home Saturday to spend Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. Hannah Holt of South Paris, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Dorr, for a few weeks.

Raymond Philbrick was very ill last week with a sharp attack of pleurisy.

The Sunshine Club met Saturday afternoon in the vestry of the church, and it was voted to hold another meeting this week at the home of Christina Lang on Whitman St.

Mr. C. F. Bartlett of Rumford, the well known piano tuner, expects to leave here and return to his former home in Belfast soon.

My Bartlett is well known in Mexico, where he has made many friends by his pleasant ways and faithful work.

Mr. Stevens' sister, who has been his guest for several days, returned to her home in Lisbon, the last of this week.

Miss Frances Packard leaves this week for South Halloway, where she will spend the summer with her parents in camp.

Albert E. Small has been appointed to take the place on the school board left vacant by the death of Frank V. Hatch.

The Grange took over this week for an all day meeting of the town of Mrs. A. given on the Swift River Road. A very pleasant time is anticipated.

Miss Elizabeth Richards, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. L. D. Howard, left for Bang Center Monday afternoon, to visit Mrs. Richards' father, Stephen Richards, who is very ill, suffering of a cancer on his face.

They will stop in Minneapolis going from there to her father's home. Mrs. May Howard is staying in keeping house for Mrs. Howard during her absence.

Rev. J. A. Fisher gave a most interesting talk Sunday evening on "The Power of the Tongue." One of the quotations which he gave was one which might be remembered with advantage to many, namely, "A bad look on a man's mouth tells to his face value." It applies to women too.

Next Sunday morning will be the Children's Day Exercise at the Congregational church.

The Children's Mission with the Children's Missionary Offering.

S. D. Packard is having the Willis water system installed in his block.

The Laurel Club met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Claude Brown on Kimball Ave. and was most delightfully entertained in a musical way. The games and contests were of the musical order and the two contests offered two prizes each, the lucky winners being Mrs. T. M. Stevens 1st, and Mrs. E. R. Stevens 2nd of the Musical Object Contest, and Mrs. Tom Penley 1st, and Mrs. T. M. Stevens 2nd of the Musical Romance of Civil War. Delicious refreshments of ices and cakes were served by the hostess and a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the ladies. The club will be entertained this week by Mrs. Archie Gleason.

A number of the Knights of King Arthur are planning to go to Rumford Point, Tuesday afternoon to attend the County Congregational Conference with the church there. On Tuesday evening, an able speaker will speak on "Boys' Work." Tuesday afternoon after their arrival, they, the Castle Fisher of Mexico, will play a game of ball with the Castle from Bethel. The boys anticipate a fine time.

Miss Mary Taylor of Frye was in town Monday, visiting schools.

The "Knights of the Holy Cross" served an excellent supper at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening and realized a goodly sum.

The Baptist church observed its 5th Annual Roll Call on Friday evening, June 4th. A large number were present and responded to their names. At the business meeting nearly all the officers and committees were re-elected. E. P. Goodwin was elected treasurer, L. H. McCollister clerk and Howard Vaughn Superintendent of the S. S. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The Women's Annual Baptist Missionary Meeting of Oxford Association was held in Canton on Wednesday, June 9th. Miss Clara Ritchie and Mrs. Mary C. Reynolds were the principal speakers. Mrs. M. S. Howes presented the report of Home Missionary Work in Oxford Association for the past year.

Mrs. Reynolds is soon to leave for her work in the West and her presence and address was highly appreciated. A very profitable and social time was enjoyed.

At a business meeting of the Baptist S. S. Mr. Geo. Lervey was elected Assistant Superintendent, Mrs. Goodwin Treasurer and Secretary. Miss Rector Beedy Assistant Treasurer and Secretary. Herbert M. Howes Librarian. A large number of fine new books have recently been added to the library.

Death of Carlton T. Gleason.

Death has again entered our midst, taking one of the older citizens of the town, Carlton True Gleason. Mr. Gleason has not been well all winter, but it was not considered of so dangerous a nature as to cause death. He was suffering from bronchitis and it is thought an added cold precipitated an acute attack of congestion of the lungs. He was taken very ill at four o'clock Sunday morning and before six he had passed peacefully away. The funeral was held at the home of Mrs. Gleason's sister, Mrs. Elwin Gleason, where they have been spending the winter, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. J. G. Fisher officiating. Two of his favorite hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Go Down Thy Sorrowful," were sung by a Ladies' Quartet, Miss Vandenberg, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Hodgdon and Mrs. Parsons. Mr. Gleason was a Master Mason and Masonic services were held at the grave at the Farrington cemetery. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss.

TAKER ROMANCE FROM TEARS.

Weapon of the Heroine Coolly Analyzed by French Chemist.

One does not care to have one's tears analyzed like a patent food or medicine, and to associate them with chemical substances, but we are nothing if not practical nowadays, and every shred of romance, poetry and sentiment is remorselessly wrenched from us for scientific purposes.

A French journal devoted to matters of this kind has been telling us, not only of what tears are composed, but exactly the effect that is produced on brain and body when we shed them.

So henceforth when we read that the heroine's "beautiful eyes were suffused with tears," that "in a moment she was weeping passionately on his shoulder," we shall know that by a kind of shower-bath arrangement a mixture of albuminoid, water and chemical substances was let loose at the back of her skull, thus dulling the nerve centers, and really giving her relief.

However, it does not sound romantic, and more man is likely to imagine that the fair one is really suffering doubly when all this happens.—Gentlewoman.

NOTHING LEFT TO BLUSH FOR.

Tactful Uncle Met the Situation in Really Great Style.

A young man in want of $25 wrote to his uncle as follows:

"Dear Uncle—If you could see how I blush for shame as I am writing, you would pity me. Why? Because I have to ask you for a few dollars, and do not know how to express myself. It is impossible for me to tell you. I prefer to die, I send you by messenger, who will wait for an answer. Believe me, my dear uncle, your most obedient and affectionate nephew."

"E. S.—Overcome with remorse for what I have written, I have been running after the messenger in order to recover this letter, but I cannot catch him. Heaven grant that something may stop him or that this letter may get lost."

The uncle was naturally touched, but was equal to the emergency. He replied as follows:

"My Dear Jack—Console yourself and blush no more. Providence has heard your prayer. The messenger lost your letter. Your affectionate uncle."—Judge's Library.

A Coward of Conscience.

Tired and dusty after an excursion returning from the bank holiday trip, and Slimkins, a little bald man with big ears, overcome with his day of happiness, dropped off to sleep, says the Philadelphia Record. In the hat rack above, another passenger had deposited a ferocious crab in a bucket, and when Slimkins went to sleep the crab woke up, and finding things dull in the bucket, started exploring. By careful navigation Mr. Crab reached the end of the rack, but the next moment down it fell, alighting on Slimkins' shoulder. Not feeling quite safe, he grabbed the voluminous ear of Slimkins to steady himself, and the passengers held their breath and waited for developments. But Slimkins only shook his head slightly.

"Let go, Emma," he murmured, "I tell you that I have been at the office all the evening."

Character Molds the Face.

It is not in words explicable what divine lines and lights the exercise of godliness and charity will mold and glid the hardest and coldest countenance, neither to what darkness their departure will consign the loveliest. For there is not any virtue the exercise of which, even momentarily, will not impress a new fairness upon the features; neither on them only, but on the whole body the moral and intellectual faculties have operation, for all the movements and gestures, however slight, are different in their modes according to the mind that governs them—and on the gentleness and declaration of right feeling follows grace of action, and through continuance of this, grace of form.—John Ruskin.

Had Provided for Pets.

Francis Coppes, the French author, like many artists and actors, was exceedingly fond of cats, and for years he had in his house in Paris and in the beautiful rose garden back of the house a number of fine specimens, including several valuable breeds of Persians. When Coppes died, to be followed soon by his devoted sister, who was his nurse, the Paris Animal Protective Society felt called upon to look for the cats, which were supposed to have been left in the deserted Coppes home to starve. Investigation showed, however, that the master had anticipated the friends.

What's in a Word?

Two men were discussing the trouble in India, and each had a deal to say about his notion of Hindu character.

"They're such a bellicose set of people," said one.

"Indeed?" exclaimed the other, in surprise. "I was always under the impression that they were very spare men."—Harper's Weekly.

A Veteran's Advice.

Miss Gertrude Coglian, daughter of that superb technician, the late Charles Coglian, used to act little roles under her father's eye, when she was a child. Once this dialogue was exchanged, she says:

"What shall I do with my hands?" I asked.

"Forget them," my father replied.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE DAUGHTERS

Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winchester, Ind.—"Four doctors told me that they could never make me regular, and that I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, cramps and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman."—Mrs. MAY DEAT, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Commencing June 14th the stores in town will close three nights in each week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The funeral of Adolphe E. Delano was held Thursday at one o'clock, Rev. E. B. Barbour of Orange, Mass., officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and a good representation from the several orders to which the deceased belonged. The floral tributes were profuse and very beautiful. Appropriate songs were rendered by Gladys L. Waite. The pall bearers were Ellis and Bert Delano, Floyd Stubbs and E. W. Howe. The interment was at Dixfield. Among those from out of town who attended the last and rites of Mr. Delano, were Messrs. Wright, Ballard, Bean, Wheeler and Fogg of Paris; Dr. A. L. Stanwood, Rumford; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. March, and Mrs. Claire Minot of Dixfield.

FOR SALE.

HOTEL AND FARM.

This property is located in the village of West Bethel, Maine, opposite the Grand Trunk depot. The hotel contains 18 sleeping rooms, kitchen, large dining room, parlor and office. An aqueduct supplies the house with pure water from a spring which never fails.

Two small stables are near the house, besides a large barn 60x125 feet with a cellar 15 feet high under the whole of it.

Back of the buildings is a field of seventy-five acres without a stone or rock on it, the pasture being within ten minutes walk from the barn. The buildings are all in first class repair, having been newly shingled only two years ago.

An excellent opportunity is here offered to any one contemplating the opening of a hotel and summer boarding house. The farm offers extra facilities, being in the near neighborhood of good markets. Terms easy. For further particulars write to—

DIXFIELD ITEMS.

The Happenings of the Week as gathered by the Citizen Reporter.

Rev. W. E. Gaskin, pastor of the Universalist church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of Dixfield High school, Sunday morning. The church looked very pretty in its decorations of blue and white crepe paper. "The class colors," the sermon was very appropriate, an uplift and inspiration full of helpful suggestions. The topic was from the following words found in Timothy, 3rd chapter, 12th verse, "Let no man despise thy youth." The graduating exercises will be held at the Universalist church, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. An address will be delivered by Prof. Elmont Brookings Mitchell, Prof. of Rhetoric and Rhetoric of Bowdoin College.

Tuesday evening of last week, Monday, O. E. S. entertained Washington, Evergreen and Mt. Zion chapters. The evening was much enjoyed by all present. Thirteen chapters were present. A bounteous banquet was served. The evening work rendered by members of Monitor Chapter at the meeting, entitled "The Pillars," was well worthy of special mention. The next regular meeting of Monitor Chapter will be held Tuesday evening, June 22nd. The degrees of Master will be conferred upon two candidates; refreshments will be served. The evening will conclude the meetings until September, the chapter having its annual summer vacation through July 1st.

The "What Not" social held at the farm, Monday evening by the senior class of the Dixfield High school, was well attended and the evening was enjoyed. The proceeds will be used to defray the graduating expenses. Gertrude Ladd is visiting relatives in Portland.

Several from here attended the funeral service of Mr. Adelbert Delano, at Canton Point, Thursday afternoon. Ed Smith and family have moved back to their farm in center of town.

Miss Annie Delano is in Portland a few weeks with friends. Children's Day will be observed at Universalist church next Sunday with appropriate exercises. Several children will be christened.

Mr. Mary Holman Gould, widow of late Elias Gould, died at her home, Sunday evening, June 6th. She has been in feeble health for many years, but has been able to do her work for herself and son, the past year. A few days ago, she suffered a stroke Saturday. She was feeling comfortable Sunday nearly all day. She was in attendance, did not change until a few moments before her death. She leaves two sons, still living in Lewiston, Ormonde, she resided with; five brothers and sisters, Miss Jane Holman of Portland, who came Monday, and Mrs. Stain of this town. The funeral service was held at the Universalist church, Wednesday, Rev. W. E. Gaskin officiating. The interment at Riverside cemetery. Her age 71 years.

There is more than 100 cases of the disease known as scarlet fever, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a fatal disease, and resorted to local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Scarlatina has proven clearly to be a constitutional disease, and therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures all kinds of catarrhs, and for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

WEST PARIS.

The Weekly Happenings as Gleaned by Our Special
Staff Reporter.

Children's Day will be appropriately observed at the Universalist church next Sunday morning, June 13, by a service of songs, recitations and exercises by the children of the Sunday School.

The annual Odd Fellows Memorial service was observed by West Paris Lodge L. O. O. F. and Oxford Rebekah Lodge, last Sunday afternoon, June 6. Quite a large delegation from the two orders met at their hall and participated in the following program was carried out:

Organ Voluntary, Miss Brown, Anthem, In Heavenly Love Abiding, Choir.

Scripture and Prayer, Soprano and Alto Duet and Chorus, Sermon, Rev. Isabella S. Macduff, Singing, Nearer My God to Thee, Benediction.

The members of the choir were Mrs. P. S. Ennam, soprano; Miss Annie Stoeck, alto; Mr. L. M. Irish, tenor; Mr. F. A. Dunham, bass, and all who had part in the service wore the badge of the orders. After the service the 33 graves of deceased members in the cemetery were suitably decorated with wreaths, flags and flowers.

Last Thursday afternoon the special topic at the W. C. T. U. meeting held with Mrs. David Emmons was "The Flower Mission," and there was a good program, consisting of a paper by Miss Della H. Lane, readings by Mrs. C. H. Lane, Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. Elva E. Locke and recitations by Rev. Miss Macduff.

Theodore, son of Mr. Vernal W. Bates of New Haven, Conn., has come here to stay through the summer season with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bates.

Mr. Charles W. Field of Boston is again in town for the summer.

Mrs. J. H. Barrows and mother, Mrs. Fannie Young of Bethel recently made a few days' visit with Mrs. Sarah E. Curtis.

Maurice Tracy son of H. S. Tracy of Dixfield, has also been a guest of his uncle, W. G. Hammond, for a week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish of Rumford, visited his twin brother, Mr. Luther M. Irish, a few days the last of the week.

Alvah M. Andrews of So. Woodstock, who has purchased a new automobile and built a nice new garage had it dedicated last Friday evening with a dance and social, the occasion also being the birthday of his son Harlan. Refreshments were served, and music furnished by Martin and Tuell of this place on violin and organ. Quite a number from this place were invited and had a nice time.

MAINE REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

The Maine Society, Sons of the American Revolution, are making special and earnest efforts to obtain information as to burial places of Revolutionary soldiers in the State and are desirous of hearing from anyone who knows the last resting place of any such soldier. More than 10,000 men went into the Revolutionary Army from what is now the State of Maine. So far about 1,400 graves have been located and recorded.

The data wanted are headstones in cemeteries (where there is a headstone), local names of the cemetery and its location in town or city; where there is no headstone, then location of cemetery and grave, so far as known, with date of death and age. Any information will be gladly received and may be addressed to J. W. Penney, Mechanic Falls, Maine.

The U. S. government now furnishes free headstones for Revolutionary soldiers' graves.

The new autos that arrived in town last week, are those owned by J. S. Harlow, H. B. Marsh and T. E. Holt.

Miss Angie Hunt, clerk at the store of Mr. Nieland, spent Sunday at the home of her parents in Webb.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bartlett and daughter, Blanche, were in Brunswick Wednesday and Thursday, to attend the day exercises at Bowdoin. They made the trip in their auto.

The Bible study will meet this Thursday evening at the Church Aid rooms in Masonic building, at 7:15 o'clock.

Mr. George Oster has been taking a week's outing at the lakes.

SEASONABLE FASHIONS AND FABRICS.

Soft delicate fabrics of silk and wool in an attractive variety of weaves and in all the fashionable new colorings are shown in the season's dress and suiting materials. Softness is the dominant quality of all from the sheerest wools to the fine supple crepe de Chine, velvings and varied silk weaves of finest texture. Silk serge is a new material which is given a favored place as an ideal suiting fabric. Mohair is a "new old fabric" in checked and striped effects which is desirable for the present styles.

Cotton velvets and velvings are particularly attractive; linen is the modish material for the light summer gown, in varying texture from the heavy to the sheerest qualities. The new and attractive Parkhill weaves appear in designs of distinct beauty and are used in charming costumes; their lovely colorings and artistic styles have gained for them extensive popularity. Being of fine soft texture they are admirably adapted to prevailing fashions in modeling the pretty summer dresses which closely rival those of silken fabrics. With their soft finish and beautiful color effects, "a silken surface with a cotton price," aptly describes these Parkhill fabrics.

The separate waist remains a perennial favorite in varied styles; the tucked waist is a new variation and is made of a supple material like chiffon cloth, crepe meteor, landsdown and the soft pretty silks.

Among prevailing colors we note blue in an infinite variety of tints, mauve, lavender, rose pink and buttercup yellow.

Mystery silk is a soft and beautiful new weave of rich sheen and lovely luminous finish, winning fame and favor by reason of its adaptability to the soft clinging effects of the styles now in vogue.

It is said to be a silk season and one grows enthusiastic over the pretty, soft, delicate silken fabrics displayed on the counters. They are truly wonderfully beautiful in the varied attractive colorings. Foulards are considered preeminently among the summer silks, being exceedingly desirable for the Empire and Directoire styles, and products of the designers art in new and original effects and in all the fashionable colorings. On account of the "Showerproof" quality of these famous foulards, combined with their excellent wearing attributes, notable beauty of texture and attractive variety of colors, they are firmly fixed in popular favor and out rival many costlier weaves.

Softness and pliability being characteristic of Cheney showerproof foulards, they are eminently adapted to the prevailing fashion of long graceful lines.

Priestly weaves are preeminently among the season's favored fabrics and offer a wide range of desirable styles in black and all the modish colors; the varied weaves are of notable excellence and beauty, and are effectively used for the richest and most attractive costumes. The softness of Priestly velvets and other fine weaves are particularly well adapted to the long lines demanded by prevailing fashions.

Desirable styles for fashioning the most modish costumes are varied and attractive in the current Dollmaker and the patterns are reliable. Cotton velvets and velvings are especially favored and are in charming effects.

Hofmeister weaves are commended as of notable excellence and desirability in the development of attractive, stylish and serviceable costumes, for no wardrobe is complete without a tailored suit, and these fine wool fabrics offer a wide range of choice in all the fashionable colorings. Landsdown with its beauty of texture, lustrous finish and superior wearing qualities is effectively employed in the most charming costumes.

THE APPROACHING THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF NORTHFIELD SEMINARY.

Held During Commencement Week.

Northfield Seminary, the first of the institutions founded by D. L. Moody, is preparing to celebrate fittingly the close of the thirtieth year of its existence. From a school of a few girls, held in Mr. Moody's own home in 1879, it has grown under the principalship of Mrs. Evelyn S. Hall to a Young Ladies' Seminary of nearly five hundred students. It is in possession of a beautiful campus, a large equipment of buildings, which has been enlarged by the gift of a Memorial Chapel and a Music Hall. These buildings given by Mrs. Russell Sage, will be dedicated during the Commencement week, June 12-15.

The Program for Commencement Week. Saturday, June 12, 7:30 p. m., Dedication of Music Hall. Address by John Hopkins Denison, D. D. 8 p. m., Sacred Concert. Auditorium.

Sunday, June 13, 10:45 a. m., Baccalaureate Sermon, by W. W. Weeks, D. D., of Springfield, Mass., Auditorium, 3:30 p. m., Dedication of Russell Sage Chapel. Address by David James Burrell, D. D. 7 p. m., Round Top Meeting.

Monday, June 14, 9 a. m., Meeting of Alumnae Association. 11 a. m., Meeting of Students' Aid Society. 12:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., Class Reunions. 4 p. m., Principal's Reception. 8 p. m., Estey Chorus Concert.

Tuesday, June 15, 11 a. m., Commencement Exercises. Address by Rev. Glenn Atkins.

An organ recital which always comes at the beginning of June was held Monday evening in the great Conference Auditorium. The recital was given by Prof. W. M. C. Hammond of Hallowell upon the pipe organ given by Mr. Joseph A. Skinner of the same city.
